PROFILE

Hi im Pavle Simisic a passionate and aspiring frontend developer with a keen eye for design and a strong desire to create stunning user experiences. While my professional journey may not yet include huge work experience, my commitment to learn and dedication to honing skills makes me a promising talent in the world of web development. As a dedicated and self-motivated Frontend Developer, I am passionate about creating visually appealing, user-friendly, and responsive web applications. While I am currently in the early stages of my professional journey, my strong foundation in web development technologies and commitment to continuous learning position me as an emerging talent in the field. Currently i have 2 years of self taught expirience and im willing to work with more people and create new projects that can make world better place.
